A SCHOOL NEWSPAPER

This is the first issue of the Wooster World. In a close contest this was the name chosen by all the pupils. We welcome your contributions for the next issue. Put them in a box labeled Wooster World News in the staff room, Room 201. Be sure to have your name and room number on every article submitted.

POLIO IMMUNIZATION

There is no plan for any polio shots to be given this year in school. Funds are not available to the Health Dept. for the purchase of serum. Parents of children who have not completed the series are urged to have this taken care of by their private physician. An interval of six to seven months should elapse between the second and third shots.

Mrs. Helen Amon - School Nurse.

OUR FRIENDLY CUSTODIAN

Mr. McConnell says that the children of Wooster School are very helpful to him and the school.

When he was sick the children sent him cards. In his spare time he likes to garden.

He certainly does a lot of things for us. He cleans our building, keeps it neat, does things in our rooms for us, keeps the building warm and many other things. We all appreciate it.

KINDERGARTEN

The kindergarten has a board with streets on it. They have their house put on when they know where their home is. On another board is a barn and ten turkeys in it. It looks very pretty.

FIRST GRADE

Miss Gribben's class made applesauce and everyone in the class got some. They gave some to the teachers too. First they washed and cut up the apples. Then they added sugar and cinnamon and cooked it. It must have been very good according to the smells in the hall

Mrs. Evans' room has a parakeet named Sammy. He flies around the room.
 The children pay for his food and equipment with their tax stamp money.

The class has five guppies that are going to have babies.

Around Thanksgiving the class is going to make a pretend "First Thanksgiving" dinner table with everything you'd need for a Thanksgiving dinner.

"A STORM"

A storm was forming in the sky
 The clouds were black, the rain would fly

But all of a sudden, the sun appeared
 And the day began to brighten.
 The clouds began to fade away
 And the rain decided not to stay.
 The sun was smiling on the earth
 And filling all our hearts with mirth.

Donna Kleist - 203

Mrs. Grob's second graders have made pictures out of pumpkin seeds.
 Mr. O'Nan helped them make clay turkeys that are going to be centerpieces.
 Awhile ago they earned the P.T.A.
 attendance award and were very proud to have it.

Mrs. Smith's second grade class is making an exhibit on Indians. They are drawing Indian rugs, singing songs about Indians, and they have planted beans.
 First the bean plant had two blossoms.
 Now it has two bean pods.

The class has a collection of money which has about one coin from every country in the world.

THIRD GRADE

Mrs. Brigg's room reports that they have some turtles. They were bought with tax stamp money and are cared for by room officers chosen weekly.

They have just recently decorated the lower bulletin board with a November theme, "Animals Prepare for Winter". It shows some animals preparing for hibernation, living here through the winter, or going south. It is a very attractive display.

Miss Adam's class went on a nature hike. They looked for animals. They also have a Sea Life exhibit in their room.
 Howard Teufel brought three fish named Mike, Crabby and Fatso. Mike and Crabby died. Their class has also been studying Columbus and his trip to America.

FOURTH GRADE

In our social studies book we are learning about four countries, Holland, England, Spain and France.

We have a pen pal in Goldwood
 School. He is in the third grade.

We put out a newspaper Nov. 8, 1957.
 We made it ourselves.

FOURTH GRADE

We have five Rules to follow

1. Do not touch anyone.
2. Do not talk when someone else is talking
3. Be kind
4. Do your best
5. Follow directions.

In our room we have a Book Club. The idea is to read ten books by Christmas.

In the morning we have a time devoted to news events and talk about things that have happened in our world. We find it very interesting.

Jack Payne - 206

"Fall is Gone"

Fall is gone
And winter is here,
The birds have gone
Far and near.
The leaves have gone
From every tree,
Not a leaf in sight to see.

Candy Ryan - 207

FIFTH GRADE

Chippie is our room's parakeet. She is a female. She's green, yellow, and black. She has three toys in her cage. Each week one person takes care of her and takes her home for the weekend. We all love her.

Kathryn Riley brought a blue hyacinth bulb to us. We are going to follow the directions for growing it carefully. We are very anxious to see this beautiful blue flower.

Tom George, Joan Draper, -203

Mrs. Will's class with Mrs. Carroll's class made the display in the case downstairs on favorite book characters.

You should see their paper mache masks! Such funny faces! They pasted the paper on a balloon and then painted the faces on.

The members of the class have pen pals from such states as Michigan, Virginia, Nebraska and others.

Room 207

Mrs. Slack's room decided to study the weather changes. To do this we made a weather graph for the month of October. We followed the high and low temperatures. We marked the high temperature with blue and the low with red.

In science our fifth grade has been studying about planets. We have learned that our planet, the earth, has a diameter of about 7900 miles. If we could travel through our earth at about 400 miles an hour, it would take us a little less than twenty hours.

The planet nearest the sun is Mercury. Its diameter is 3000 miles. If we could travel straight through Mercury at 400 miles an hour it would only take about seven and a half hours.

This fall we made an exhibit in our room. One of the boys brought the logs we used to make the cabin. Then we brought twigs for the trees and used sawdust for the grass which we colored green. We brought miniature animals for the yard. It was fun making history come to life.

Missy Norbert, Dawn Lynn Burkey-

SIXTH GRADE

Mrs. Agnor's sixth grade went to the Museum of Natural History to visit the Book Fair. We saw books about space, animals, science, fairy tales and fiction. Then we went over to the planetarium and heard two authors speak; Julilly Kohler and William Scheele.

Dean Schwank and Laurel Baus found a five legged frog. It's a regular frog except that it has five legs. We also have a chipmunk named PeeWee and two guinea pigs and by January we will have baby guinea pigs.

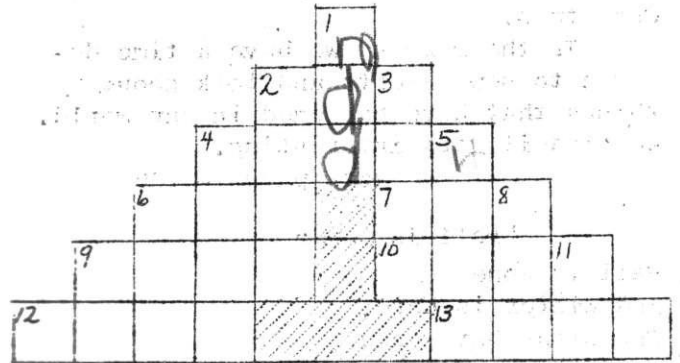

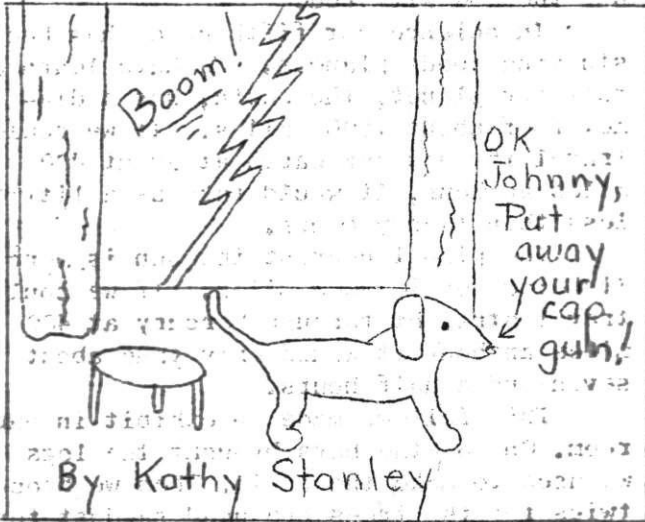

Room 208

"PEOPLE"

People here, people there, people
scurrying everywhere,
Fat ones, sad ones, and little glad ones.
People here, people there, yes
people everywhere.
